In Memoriam

HEHEHERE BURRY

Zachary Taylor Kibett

BORN SEPTEMBER 25, 1848

DIED MARCH 20, 1928

Builder of Old Tabernacle.

Maker of Brick and Builder of Old Administration

Building.

Member of Executive Committee of Trustees of Campbell College.

Member of Local Board of Education.

An Unfailing Friend of this Institution.

"God took care to hide that country till He judged His people ready, Then He chose me for His whisper, and I Found it, and it's yours."

Hearing the call of a homeless institution, ravaged by the fire of 1900, Z. T. Kivett left his quiet home on the red banks of the Cape Fear to cast his lot with Buie's Creek Academy in its hour of supreme need. With hope of little financial reward he directed the burning of the brick and the erection of our Old Administration Building. Through three long years he built, as money was provided, a monument to himself that shall survive in the hearts of thousands that were blessed at its feet.

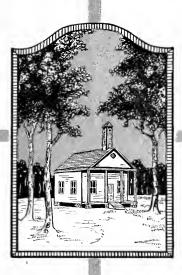

In the years that have followed other thousands have found in this pioneer a call "to dare and do." To him the untried paths, the secrets of man and God, the promised lands of truth, bore an interest unusual in a man of his years.

Though unwavering in his loyalty to Campbell College and all its interests, perhaps his most conspicuous allegiance was to his church, which for years he served as its Senior Deacon. This white-haired patriarch seated regularly at the front—

"With meck and unaffected grace His looks adorned the place."— has been a benediction to many.

"How beautiful it is for man to die Upon the walls of Zionl to be called Like a watch-worn and weary sentinel To put his armor off, and rest in Heaven."

ADMINISTRATION

Forty-one years ago on Jan. 5, Buie's Creek Academy opened with sixteen students in a small one-room house 48x22 feet, shown above. The founder, still its President, providentially, it seems, responded to the appeal of a small group of citizens led by William Pearson to teach a community school for a few months. This human need was evidently God's call to follosqued the still of the community school for a few months. This human need was evidently God's call to follosque the still of the still o

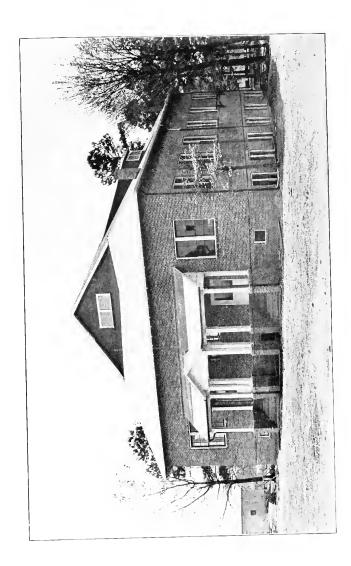

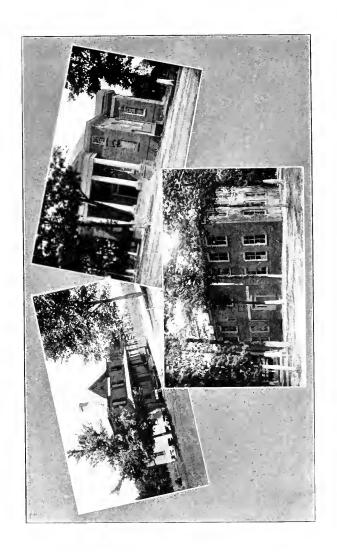

"Don't cry, teacher," said Herman Stevens, as the home of Buie's Creek Academy, enlarged through sacrifices of its friends, on December 20, 1920, lay smoking in ruins. "We boys are going to build you a brick building." On this rock of faith the friends of the institution came to the help of the Principal, and after years of toil, often through mists and shadows, Campbell College, secure in the hearts of North Carolina Baptists, emerged.

CLASSES

The humble birthplace of Campbell College grew by additions in the summer of 1887, in 1893, and again in 1896 "into the bouse beautiful." The one-room structure had swelled into a three story building of six commodious recitation rooms, Art Hall, Commercial Hall, Library, and Society Halls, nicely carpeted and furnished. The pride of teachers, students, and friends, this temple of learning proudly and defiantly lifted its head heavenward. It embodied the achievements of the past as well as the hope for future years. Thus, often we pin our hope to the perishable things of life that pass in the night.

CLASS POEM

O Intellect of mind, Wisdom of soul,
Composite of the best in God-made man,
Abide with us in life—it's just a span—
And give an aim which leads to a worthy goal.
O thou Desired, while sands from the hour-glass roll
Leave thy seclusion and reveal the plan
Entrusted to Nature, turned over to man;
Linger, enlighten, calm, then, too, control.
As thus we commune in this trysting place
To seek thy truths, thy chastity and grace,
We would erect an hallowed shrine to tell
How here we learned to live nobly and well.
Still flash the gleam of thy torch forever;
Give us the light that will grow dim never.

PINE OF TABLETON IN

SPENCER A. BELL, Eu cycle, N. c.

Age 21, height 5 ft 11 in., weight 170.

Activities: Varsity Football, '26, '27; Varsity Baseball, '26, '27; Varsity Basketball, '27, '28; Treasurer of College Class, '28.

"Not too serious, not too gay, But a rare good fellow when it comes to play."

"Spence" hails from Yadkin County, where railroad casualties never happen. He is a typical mountaineer, and belongs to the traternal society composed of Martin, Phillips, and Bell His attractive personality has won its way into the hearts of those he has mingled with during the years he has spent here

Just to look at him, one would think that he is a hard, sophisticated woman-hater, but here you are wrong. "Spence" is rather quiet, and people often get an impression that he is bashful, which is a mistake. If you don't believe it, ask "Bill."

In his athletic career "Spence" has done well for his Alma Mater. If he fights the old world as he fought on the athletic field here, the world has a place for him.

MARY ELIZABETH ADAMS, Sappho COLERAIN, N. C.

Age 19, height 5 ft. 6 in., weight 116.

Activities; English Critic in Society, '26; Sappho Improvement Medal, '27; Sappho Society Super visor, '27; William and Mary Club, '27, '28.

To know Mary is to love her Dignity, refinement, culture, and modesty are elements possessed by her that blend into a beautiful character.

The world will know about her good deeds not by the noise that she makes, but by the deeds themselves. Her grades—you should see them! She does not work for a seventy-five, but "hitches her wagon to the stars" and climbs beyond the nineties.

"And still we gazed, and still the wonder grew That one small head could carry all she knew"

Another poet well described Mary when he said.

"Yet graceful ease, and sweetness void of pride Might hide her faults, if Mary had faults to hide;

If to her share some female errors fall, Look on her face, and you will forget all."

ZULA ELLEN ROGERS, Astro

LILLINGTON, N. C.

Age 20, height 5 ft. 4 in., weight 134.

Activities: General B. Y. P. U. Secretary, '26, '27; Astro Improvement Medal, '27; Y. W. A. Seretary, '26, '27; B. Y. P. U. Bresident, Fall '27; Y. W. A. President, '27; Vice-President of Volunteer Band, '27, '28; Harnett County College Club, 28.

"High erected thoughts scated in a heart of love."

Here's a Harnett County girl who for determination to get an education, byadty, and zeal in Christian work, is rarely excelled. Though a self-help student, she has always found time to serve her B. Y. P. U. in addition to her school studies. While not unusually brilliant, she has fought a winning fight against ignorance, as is shown by her class record.

Zula possesses the qualities that make tor lasting friendship. She is sincere and uncompromising in her conduct, but not offensive to those who disagree with her. Her ways are the ways of peace. Even her burdens are borne submissively. So here's to our friend, every-body's friend, success and happiness through life's longest day.

GEORGE DEWEY DANNER, *Phi*CATAWBA, N. C.

Age 29, height 5 ft. 11 in., weight 150.

"Oh, it's good to be merry and wise— It's good to be honest and true"

A man with convictions. His firmly set jaw is an index to his determination and steadfast-ness. His serious purpose has urged him to reenter school rather late and has enabled him to make his own way through college by following the carpenter's trade. "G D." is one of the hardest workers in the class. What many others get without much effort, he pays for by burning the midnight oil, but he gets it

Danner is one of our most loyal Campbell-tes. He has served his Alma Matter well in the many responsible positions which have been entrusted to him. While unable to represent the college on the athletic field, he has enthusiastically backed the teams from the side lines. His biggest contribution has been made through his society and the religious organizations. When he leaves, there'll be a big place for somebody to fill.

MARGARET CORNELIA TAYLOR

BUIE'S CREEK, N. C.

Age 19, height 5 ft. 6 in., weight 120.

Activities: Basketball, '26, '27; Harnett County College Club, '28,

"Her joys are as deep as the ocean, Her troubles as light as the foam"

Cornelia has the distinction of being the first community girl to graduate from our College Department. Having received her training through high school and college at this institution, she has learned the Campbell Spirit from long as ociation. In the meantime, she has made a host of friends by her happy disposition and her companionate nature.

While Cornelia leaves behind a creditable scholastic record, her interest in the social and athletic life of the College is keen. In the year 1927 she represented her Alma Mater on the winning basketball team that dropped only two contests of a twelve game schedule. She goes out with the good will of all her associates, who wish for her success and happiness in her search for life's enduring trophies.

HENRY DOWELL JONES, Phi CAMERAN, N. C.

Age 18, height 5 ft. 11½ in., weight 160.

Activities: Class Basketball, '26, '27; Vice-President Society, Fall of '27; English Critic, Fall of '27; Football Squad, '27.

"My business is not to remake myself, But to make the absolute best of what God made."

Quiet and easy, rather timid at times, but always in a good humor—that's "Deacon." Probably his name has not been heard so often as others, but when we look for a clean upright young man, we find him in Henry Dowell. If it's fun, he's in for it. As a freshman, he would neither hide nor dodge; on the contrary, he seemed to welcome all newish tricks, even measles and mumps.

But more than this can be said of him. He always filled his place in church, Sunday School, and other places of duty. Though his name ever appeared in the football headlines, he stuck to the gridiron and did his hest for the men who faced the toe. In basketball he served his class well, and we are justly proud of his record there.

Because of his honesty and faithfulness during these two years, we predict for him a place of honor and service that only comes to men who are made from boys of his type.

JAMES B. HARDY, Eu BURLINGTON, N. C

Age 20, height 5 ft. 11 in., weight 172.

Activities: President of Class, '27, '28: President of Society, '27: Vice-President of College Freshman Class, '26, '27: Treasurer of Wester North Carolina Clab, '26: Varsity Football Team, '27: Track Team, '26: '27: Supervisor of Society, '26: Class Basketball, '26: Manager of Bachelor's Clab, '27: Pearson Building Clab, '28.

"Always ready to do what there is to be done."

Because he rates high with the more athleticloving students at this institution, he was chosen captain of the football team; because he rates high with the literary type of students, erary Society; because he rates high with the class as a whole, he was made president of the College Sophomore Class; and because he is a good, all-round fellow, he is liked by every box and girl on the Campusse

Due to the fact that he is a regular attendant on Mrs. Parker's afters-shool kettures, we feel sure that "Jack" will some day look back with pride on the days he spent at good old Campbell. His favorite German saying is "Ich kenne nicht." "Jack" is a typical Campbell College man. He always boosts his Alma Matter wherever he goes.

MARY FRANCES TILLEY, Astro

DURHAM, N. C.

Age 19, height 5 ft. 6 in., weight 105.

Activities: President B. Y. P. U., '26; Vire-President Astro Society, '27; Secretary Astro Society, '27; Vice-President B. S. U., '27, '28; President of Durham County Club, '28; Class Editor for Pine Burr, '28; Tennis Club, '28; William and Mary Club, '27, '28.

"A perfect woman, nobly planned, Fo warm, to comfort, and command; And yet a spirit still, and bright, With something of angelic light."

If you want to see a living symbol of loya'ty and fidelity, look at our Mary. Intangible as the terms may seem, she has made them tangible and real to us by her contancy of purpose and reliability. The class room, the society hall, and the religious units on our campus have found "Jack" to be a diligent, enthusistic, earnest worker. In all the activities of our school life, she has proved her willingness to lend a helping hand; her part has been played nobly and well. In truth, Mary goes among her associates doing good. "Jacks" very gentleness is suggestive of a deep, determined will-power and forcefulness.

MARY LILLIE DEWAR, Astro FUOUAY SPRINGS, N. C.

Age 18, height 5 ft. 7 in., weight 127.

Activities: Editor-in-Chief of Pine Burr, '28; Secretary of Class, '28; Supervisor of Society, Spring of '27; English Critic of Society, Fall of '27; Chaplain of Society, '28; Harnett County College Club, '28; William and Mary Club, '28;

> "A creature not too bright or good For human nature's daily food."

The cheery, sunny disposition, and keen sense of humor of this prominent member of our class have made it easy to win the love of all her classmates. She is a sunbeam which makes its way into the gloomy corners of this earth. That she holds in the hearts of her classmates a high place, was obvious last spring when she was elected to be Editor-in-Chief of this volume of the PINE BURR. Mary is capable and she does not shirk her duties. The monthly honor rolls and the report cards give evidence of her zeal and diligence as a praiseworthy student.

Although she has the distinction of being one of our A students, she is as unassuming and modest as a violet. Quietly she lives right in our midst, giving us something of the good and beautiful.

BENJAMIN A. DARDEN, Eu

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C.

Age 17, height 5 ft. 11 in., weight 155.

Activities: Class Basketball, '27; Class Historian, '28; Dramatic Club, '26, '27; Pearson Building Club, '27, '28; Cumberland County Club, '26, '27.

"The power of thought—the magic of the mind"

Two years ago "Jack" left his home down on the farm to start his career at Campbell College. He settled over in the Pearson Building and has proved a loyal clansman against every outside attack. A keen sense of humor supported with an unending line of jokes has helped to make him a typical college favorite. He takes life pretty much as he finds it, without worrying or feeling constrained to reform it.

While possessed with this easy-going disposition, Jack has a quick mind that is eager to find the truth. He has shown his classmates how to make a high scholastic record without burning the midnight oil. He will argue for his convictions with anybody; and is just as ready to submit, if he finds himself in the wrong

ALBERT JENNINGS MARTIN, Eu HAMPTONVILLE, N. C.

Age 20, height 6 ft. 2 in., weight 170.

Activities: Three letter man; Athletic-Scholarship Medal, '27; Varsity Football, '26, '27; Varsity Basketball, '27, '28; Varsity Baseball, '27, '28; Captain of Basketball Team, '28; Sport Editor of Creek Pebbles, '27; Publicity Director for Campbell, '27, '28; Sport Editor of the Fine Burr, '28.

"Happy am I, from care I am free; Why aren't they all contented like me?"

This good-natured, likable fellow has always been an enigma to us. Though he belongs to that group that never believes in his studies interfering with his pleasures, he manages to absorb enough to head off failure in his classes. And he's not an ignoramus at that. If he doesn't know his German, he can open the eyes of Senator Jim Reed with his prodigious knowledge of Republican corruption.

During his two years on the campus "Abb" has established himself as a three-sport athete. In football, basketball, and baseball he has been a consistent, hard-working letter man.

"Ya-as, sir," he still wears the "m-a-n-e-r-s" of a mountaineer. It makes no difference how thick the polish, the heart of the hills beats warmly in his breast.

KATHERINE FLORENCE BLAND Sappho

RALEIGH, N. C.

Age 18, height 5 ft. 3 in., weight 123.

Activities: Sceretary Dramatic Club, '27, '28; Sceretary Class, '27; Editor-in-Chief Pine Burr, '27; President Society, '27; English Critic Society, '28; President Wake County Club, '28; Assistant Director Intermediate B. Y. P. U., '27; Editori-Chief Creek Pehhles, Spring, '28; Mid-Term Debater, '28; Anniversary Debater, '28; Glee Club, '27, '28;

From nobody knows where, a gale, which was not a bad one, has blown a girl of many talents to Campbell College. Of all the energetic, never ceasing, and perpetual-motioned ones, "Kat" has everybody at Campbell beaten. She can perform her home duties, do lots of outside work, have a good time, and lead her class in such a short time that we wonder if there isn't a little bit of brilliancy about her

Her interests are many and varied. With her voice or at the piano she can thrill you with strains of melody that find inspiration in a heart moved by harmony. With the brushe might convince you that her major talent was in art; yet her ability of leadership in the various student organizations brings her to the front as an undisputed leader.

THELMA FAY MORGAN, Sappho

CARY, N. C.

Age 21, height 5 ft. 6 in., weight 150.

Activities: Chaplain of Sappho Society, '27: Journalism Class, '28.

"She's true to her world, her work, and her friends."

In Fay we find a combination of all the qualities that are sure to produce a good student. Cheerful, smiling, persevering, she has quietly pursued her way among us. Dependable, loyal, sincere, Fay has won her way into our hearts, as she has made a high place for herself in her classwork.

If you want something done, you'll find Fay a willing and capable helper; and whatever she does, you may be sure she will put her best into it. She has been a valuable asset to the Creck Pebbles staff; we wonder how the B. Y. P. U. could have done without her.

We aren't sure what Fay has chosen as a career, but we think—that would be telling. She says she is going to teach next year.

BENNY CRAWFORD, Phi

EURE, N. C.

Age 24, height 5 ft. 10 in., weight 140.

Activities: Secretary of Ministerial Conference, 27; Vice-President of Ministerial Conference, Spring, '27; Secretary of Society, '26; Vice-President of Phi Society, '27; Class Baskeball, '26; '27; Dramatic Club, '26, '27; Track Team, Spring, '27; Secretary of Phi Society, Fall, '27,

"None but himself can be his parallel."

A good all-round fellow. With his fiddle he can, with a few graceful movements, waft you out of the dismal world of Latin, Algebra, and German into a realm where elvish spirits dance with never a care. Or should this charm insufficient be, he can swell the harmony with vocal strains that will move you in some direction. From his capers you might think him an actor, and so he is. Nor does his love for music diminish his love for those "endearing charms" about the girly dormitory. With the ladies, he's a "social knockout."

But "Bennic" is more than a musician and ladies' man. He's a hard-working, conscientious student, ewer ready to do his best. He divides his working hours between his college courses, his society, and the religious activities of the school.

"She is little, she is spry, But there's mischief in her eye."

Here's to "Scrub." The old adage holds true again: "fittle but loud." "Scrub" came to us at the first of the year from Meredith College. She has developed a very strong liking for "trombone music" and we feel sure that some day she will attain a high place in the music world. While much interested in all the activities of the school, Worth has a peculiar fondness for "football"

Worth goes about her work with a vim, and as a result has established a high record for herself. Though she enjoys a good laugh when it's time to laugh, she has a serious purpose and can always be depended on.

We hope that Worth will attain that goal for which she is striving, but we predict that she will launch her boat into the sea of Matrimony soon after she attains her B.A.

DURHAM E. ALLEN

ST. PAULS, N. C.

Age 19, height 5 ft. 11 in., weight 170.

"We leave the praises unexpressed; We leave thy greatness to be guessed."

Many good things could be said about this well-known member of our class, but to keep burham from feeling his importance too much, only the most outstanding traits will be mentioned. Suffice it to say that Mr. Allen likes women, music, a good time and—studies. He is one of the most extreme optimists in our class—he always sees the sunny day ahead When he laughs, it is the rollicking, good-natured laugh of one who thoroughly enjoys life as he goes along. He is very bright in his studies, and although they are the least of his troubles, he manages to maintain a fair average.

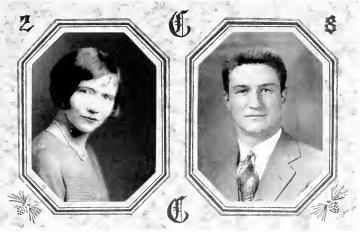

Durham "rates" high with all the members of the faculty also. In fact, he rarely, if ever, misses a faculty meeting. We all envy him this honor.

To know Fronie is to love her. When she is once a friend, she is always a friend, regardless of the sacrifice required to prove it. One with higher ideals, more determination to succeed, or one who is fairer in everything can't be found—of that we are sure, and her Alma Mater is proud of her

Among her valued talents is the ability to write anything from a poem to a one-act play. Her ability along this line was demonstrated by the way she edited Creek Pebbles last Fall

"But now my task is smoothly done, I can fly or I can run."

From some little place nestled away in the heart of Western North Carolina there came an aspiring young chap who gave up mountain climbing for life at Campbell.

"Louis" pretended that he was married the first year he was with us, but during his last year actions spoke louder than words, and we found that he was like the rest of the boys—trying to find a mate. We wonder what "Dancy" would say if she knew that "Louis" had a girl here at the Creek.

He has made for himself an enviable place in the hearts of his classmates by his care-free disposition, his friendly nature, and his integrity.

In his athletic career, Phillips has done well for his Alma Mater, participating in practically every form of sport.

"Be a man above all things."

His classmates hail him as a modern Cavendish. He is at home in the Chemistry laboratory, where last year he won distinction as student assistant.

Determination, will, and purpose are elements of success, richly combined in this young son from Randolph. Midnight oil has done for him that which his host of friends could not

Those of his circle will remember him as a serious, conscientious student, but not too serious to laugh at a good joke. Clay is a great admirer of the girls, and some day, perhaps, he will succeed in—oh, well, we will not predict that far

He has chosen to cast his lot among chemical elements in which field we confidently predict a brilliant future.

CLASS HISTORY

In the fall of 1926, fifty-four distinguished Freshmen entered through the newly-opened gates of Buie's Creek Junior College, very soon afterward changed to Campbell College. As charter members of the College we felt and showed our importance in every act and word. After chasing butterflies, as it were, for a few weeks, we came down out of the seemingly ethereal regions back to this hard and cruel earth. This desired consequence (desired by the faculty) was brought about mainly by the efforts of a certain mathematics teacher, who had maliciously flunked nearly every member of our distinguished class on a whole month's work. After a number of such calamities struck us in their full fury, we realized the need of pilots to lead us through the wilderness of Learning and carefully chose the following officers: Dewey Danner, President; J. B. Hardy, Vice-President; Katherine Bland, Secretary; and M. A. Williams, Treasurer. These officers served us wisely and well for the remainder of the year.

A brilliant page in our history for this year was the record of our part in athletics. Campbell put forth winning teams in all three of the major sports, half or more of every one of which teams were college students. Chief among these athletes were Hardy, Reaves, Martin, Simpson, Bell, Hawkins, Phillips, and McNeill. The girls also produced some athletes worthy of notice, of whom Gurganus, Taylor, and Jones were outstanding.

"What?" Of course we registered as Sophomores! "Freshmen?" Why, no! "Them days is gone forever!" These and other snatches were caught as we registered for our second year at Campbell College. As we expected, we missed several faces from our band of the year before, but new faces more than made up for the old ones that were missing. Soon we fell into the old routine of study, eat, and sleep.

We chose as our officers this year: J. B. Hardy, President; Katherine Bland, Vice-President; Mary Dewar, Secretary; and Spencer Bell, Treasurer.

In athletics this year, we shone equally as well as we did last year. The athletes, however, were nearly every one letter men of last year. We are confident that we will hear much more of our athletes in the years to come, both from the athletic and the literary side of life. For, along with their ability in athletics, they have shown wonderful ability in their studies.

We are proud of the fact that a Sophomore, Mary Dewar, was chosen as the editor-in-chief of our 1928 Annual, and that several other officers on the Annual staff were Sophomores. Also, the Creck Pebbles, our school paper, had as its editors, Fronie Harrell and Katherine Bland, from the Sophomore class, both of whom have honored our whole class.

And now as we come to the end of our stay here, it is with the deepest regret that we must lose the companionship that we have found with our teachers, fellow-students, and classmates. We realize now as never before what they have meant to us. Every departing sight fills our eyes with poignant memories. The very deepest feeling of the whole class is embodied in this wish: May the experiences in future life be as helpful and happy as the ones we experienced while students in Campbell College.

CLASS PROPHECY

I WILL now tell you of one of the strangest incidents that ever occurred to me, which for special reasons I have never revealed before.

Hallowe'en night! Midnight had passed, and the wee, small hours of the morning had come. There was no moon, and everything was dark as pitch and still as death—the kind of night on which the witches like to ride. I was all alone in the laboratory where the thrill from working on a new and dangerous experiment sent cold waves up and down my spine. My object was to determine the effect which trinitrotoluene had upon the radio-activity of certain elements when in the presence of paradichlorobenzene.

I had set my solution of paradichlorobenzene on one end of the desk, and while I was toiling and sweating over some apparatus on the other end, I heard an animal bound upon the desk. Upon turning my head there was a cat as black as coal; and before I could get to the thirsty animal, she had taken two or three swallows of my solution. Immediately the cat stood on its hind legs, stiffened its body, raised its head, and began to point its front paws in almost every direction as if it saw something high and marvelous.

After seeing this wonderful effect upon the cat, I decided that whether it be for better or for worse I was going to get in this cat's state of mind. I raised the beaker to my mouth and tasted; how delightfully cool and pleasant it was. Then, I took a large draft; the beaker slipped from my hand, and I fell into a swoon.

Everything around me seemed to be undergoing a change. The walls of the laboratory swept back from me several paces; new apparatus appeared; and great bottles of chemicals were springing up on many new shelves. I ran out on the campus, where I saw old buildings crumbling, and towering skyscrapers shooting up all around.

I entered one of the buildings in an effort to find out what all the confusion was about, and just as I opened the door leading into the hall I bumped into a lady. She told me that I was naughty to slip away from her upon our silver wedding anniversary. Then, I saw from the lines of her mouth and the blinking of her eyes that it was Annie Worth Odum. She explained that it was Commencement Day at Campbell University, May 17, 1955. We stood facing a great mirror, and for the first time I saw that my hair was gray and my body looking old.

The exercises had begun when we found ourselves seated in the immense auditorium. Fay Morgan, President of the University, opened the exercises. To my joy Bennie Crawford was directing the music. Facing him sat a choir of birds unaccompanied by human voice save by Bennie's, and his could not be distinguished in that prean to Alma Mater.

The address, delivered by Rev. Durham Allen, was brought to an abrupt conclusion at the beck of his wife—formerly Annie Dove Wilson,

Our next attraction was a demonstration by two artists. Fronie Harrell had won fame by erecting skyscrapers; while Spencer Bell, the mountain engineer, won his distinction by raising mountains from mole hills.

I was surprised to hear that Pluto Jones was the chief coach of Campbell's athletics.

Another remarkable sight! I found Cornelia Taylor clinging to her old home town and bewailing the fact that scientists had eliminated leap year from the calendar.

As I was strolling through the reading-room, I discovered a daily paper by the name of "Campbellonian Times." Underneath a large picture on the front page was the caption, "J. B. Hardy, The New Editor."

At seven o'clock the class of '28 gathered for a reunion in a room specially equipped with a radio-television apparatus for the purpose of communicating with the absent members.

Everything was set, and the first picture on the screen was from Hades. Rev. Paul Phillips was there on a missionary tour in an effort to convert Satan, but his first convert was Jack Darden. Although Jack was a co-worker with Phillips on the side line, he won distinction there by his discovery of an antitoxin for laziness.

A Chinese laundry pushed Hades out of the way; then, a manufacturing plant loomed up, and a loud voice introduced G. D. Danner, head of the corporation for the creation of new soles. He was determined that the Chink should we well shod,

Now there came a scene from Idaho with those purple mountains beneath an azure sky. Mary Adams appeared in the foreground with a handsome man. As I found most women, she, too, was a leader—a business lady, in fact, looking after the manufacture and distribution of rainbows.

Now Joe Meador appeared next, bearing a beautiful collection of wedding bells and wedding costumes. He was running a matrimonial bureau over in Sampson County.

The next picture was a peace conference with that fiery debater, Willa Stevens, as presiding officer. As the President of the League of Nations she displayed plenty of dash and zeal.

Farmer Katherine Bland sent us a little chorus of barnyard noises along with her Greenland scenery. She was devoting her spare time to raising cane.

Our next call came thundering in from the scene of a building high upon "Pikes Peak" amid the snow and ice. That's where Mary Dewar was running a hospital for broken hearts.

Mary faded away, and a mighty airship wavered into our view, plowing its way through space in the direction of Mars. Henry Jones was the pilot. One of the passengers was Mary Tilley, a wealthy manufacturer on the planet, who first introduced Limberger cheese to the inhabitants there.

A giant monoplane swept across the sky in a different direction, bearing a love-sick girl, Pauline Askew, who fell for the man-in-the-moon. Up there she expects to spend the rest of her days reading Romeo and Juliet and drinking moonshine.

This delightful program was now to be terminated by a real lively dance. We found ourselves in a brilliantly lighted hall with a floor as slick as glass. The music sounded and the dance began, led by the graceful dancing master and his wife, who was formerly Zula Rogers. Annie Worth and I swung right into the dance with plenty of pep, but she flitted around too fast for me. I became dizzy, swooned, and fell prostrate on the floor. Then, in a vision I was floating down the Mississippi; but before I reached New Orleans I gained complete control of my mind and found that I was lying in a pool of water on the floor of the laboratory.

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA, COUNTY OF HARNETT.

We, the first graduating class of Campbell College, feeling that after two years and more of life here, we have accumulated experiences and possessions which might help those less learned than we, do hereby take this method, by the publication of this our Last Will and Testament, of passing on the lessons taught us by the best of all teachers and by experiences; and do hereby dispose of these peculiar possessions, that have made the history of the said class the joyful and happy one it has been, to various persons where they will do the most good, thereby escaping an inheritance tax.

SECTION I

Article 1—To our school as a whole we wish to express our deepest and sincerest love. We wish to let it be known that we, the class of 1928, will ever be true to the ideals that have been instilled in us while here in school.

SECTION II

Article 1—To Dr. J. A. Campbell, our beloved College President, we wish to express our love, gratitude, and deepest appreciation for all he has meant to us during our years here.

Article 2—To Professor Leslie Campbell, in appreciation of the many services he has rendered us during the year as our guardian, adviser, sponsor, and friend, we express our sincerest thanks.

SECTION III

Article 1—To the class of 1929 we will and bequeath the joy of seniorhood, the dignity as well as the responsibilities. May your senior year be filled with happiness and success, as great as ours on this occasion.

Article 2—Fay Morgan, from her youth undernourished and underweight, having found a secret formula for supplying flesh, does hereby will the prescription to Edythe Barnhardt.

Article 3—Zula Rogers does hereby will and bequeath her supply of cosmetics along with distinction of being the campus vamp to Agnes Stephenson.

Article 4—Paul Phillips deeds the space occupied by his big feet to the girls for a basketball court.

Article 5—Mary Tilley presents her "boyish bob" to little Rosa Edwards.

Article 6—Albert Martin does bequeath his table manners, appetite and athletic letters to Annie Kerr.

Article 7—Katherine Bland bestows upon Ryburn Stancil her natural ability to talk, chew gum, and operate a typewriter all at once.

Page forty-two

Article 8—Mary Dewar extends to Mac Satterwhite the right-hand of fellow-ship into the exclusive Society of Sophs with all the privileges appertaining thereto.

Article 9—Jack Darden surrenders to Keywood Cheves his knack of begging nickels to buy candy.

Article 10—Fronie Harrell, realizing the beauty of her golden locks and earnestly desiring to see the same forever established on the campus, does hereby will and bequeath her curls to Charles Earp.

Article 11—G. D. Danner conveys the copyright on his illustrated lecture on "How to Get Married and Stay So" to Edith Pearson, all profits from which to be used for developing an arboretum for love-sick students.

Article 12—Florence McDonald, recognizing the excruciatingly painful efforts of Horace Jones to sing and the baneful effects of his attempts on the Music Department, hereby bequeaths to him her charming contralto voice to be used under the direction of Miss Cheek.

Article 13—Worth Odum confers upon Esther Moon all the dignity and privileges pertaining to the office of potentate of the "flunkers club."

Article 14—Mary Adams, being privately examined before Justice of the Peace "Doc" Hardwicke, does hereby without mental reservation bequeath to Constance Midkiff her love for Alonzo Earp, on the one condition that she promise to care for him in sickness and health and to cleave unto him until he graduates at Campbell University.

SECTION IV

Article 1—Again we give and bequeath to our beloved faculty all the amazing knowledge and startling information that we furnished them from time to time in our various examination papers. We know that much which we have imparted to them in this way must have been entirely new to them, as well as to teachers and students everywhere, and that it will throw much new light on many hitherto obscure lines of thought, both in science and art.

If the faculty see fit they are hereby authorized to give out such of this information to the world as they feel the world is ready to receive. We trust they will also feel at perfect liberty to make use of all such bits of wisdom and enlightenment for the education of the classes to come after us. This, of course, is left entirely in their discretion.

SECTION V

That this last Will and Testament may be carried out to the last letter of the law, we do hereby appoint the class as executors.

That the crection of this temporary auditorium in 1898, seen above, was an act of Providence seems certain, as the Old Tabernacle became the only home of Buic's Creek Academy for three years. Many fine boys and girls eager for truth, date their entrance into a new life of hope and promise from these unattractive surroundings. Is it not significant that this old refuge in the hour of peril gave place later to the beautiful New Administration Building situated on the same site?

"What can I do for you, little MAN?

FRESHMAN CLASS POEM

We tread the road that some have trod,
Upon life's rugged, rocky way;
And too, like some, we trust in God
To lead us onward day by day
To that great light, whose shining ray
Inspired our hearts long years ago,
And stirred us from our childhood play
With longings in our hearts to know
Upon what road our lives would go.

Now as our minds go drifting back
To these great men, passed on before,
We fear that in our hearts we lack
The grit to bear the load they bore.
We wonder will we ever soar
To that great height which they have gained.
Can we upon life's other shore
Look back upon our work attained
And see success where Jesus reigned?

Ah yes, if they in darker days
Have won success by constant prayer,
We now can profit by their ways
And spiral to a higher air.
So, Lord, pray take us as thy ware
And shape us in thy casting molds,
And place before our eyes our share
In that great work of saving souls.
What greater, Lord, might be our goals?

CLASS HISTORY

SEPTEMBER 6, 1927, will be a day long remembered in the minds of the students of the second College Freshmen class at Campbell; for it was on this date we entered college with a strong determination to fulfill the dreams of our high school days. Still dreaming, we set our motto, "With the ropes of today we ring the bells of tomorrow," as a goal for the future. So far every student has participated in bringing to pass the greatest year of real honest work in the history of this Institution.

To promote the best possible work, we organized our class as soon as a wise selection could be made from our enrollment of ninety-six. For president we chose Mac Satterwhite; for vice-president we elected Audrey O'Brian; for secretary and treasurer, Maybelle Wheless and Esther Moon, respectively, were selected. Later in the year our accomplishments required the services of a poet and historian, who are R. L. Stancil and Reba Mills, respectively.

It is interesting to note that many of our Freshmen have taken leading roles in the school drama for 1927-'28. Among the religious groups the College Freshmen hold prominent places.

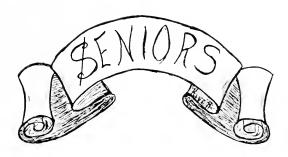

J. O. Walton, as the general B. Y. P. U. director, heads our largest, single student organization, while Howard Gardner, Edith Lee, Desmond Morris, Reba Mills, and Constance Midkiff hold similar places of leadership in the individual unions. On the B. S. U. Council, Carey Olive, William Lynch and Audrey O'Brian are from our goodly number. The Volunteer Band and Ministerial Conferences are practically made up of College Freshmen, including Della Hobson, Rosa Edwards, Reba Mills, Desmond Morris, J. O. Walton, J. L. Burton, H. E. Jones, William Lynch, R. E. Fryer, Edward Greene, Clayton Rouse and J. E. Lennon.

We are proud of those among us who have won distinction in athletics. In football, basketball, and track our boys are hard to beat. Our list of athletes with promise in some sport includes Cullipher, J. Anderson, Cale, Hamilton, Rhodes, John C. Adams, Yates, Hayden Stewart, Lennon, Robert Mitchell, Chaney, Carlyle Harmon, Parker, Canady, Sherron, Triplett, Howard Gardner, Byrd and Bethune. With these fine prospects Campbell College should have no worries for her future prowess in athletics.

HISTORY OF SENIOR CLASS

FOUR years ago on a bright autumn morning in September, an ignorant, but happy and eager group of boys and girls were carefully ushered into the great cruiser, "The Freshmen," anchored in the harbor of Buie's Creek Academy, with the sole hope and consolation that a green thing must grow. After being assigned our duties aboard the ship, we realized that the journey had begun in earnest; so we settled down to quietude and work. Under the cold and haughty eyes of the upper deck-men, we struggled for nine long months in perfect misery over the waters of hardships and discontent. If it had not been for the guiding hands of our most worthy captains. Campbell and Marshbanks, our hopes and ambitions might have vanished like ships that pass in the night.

After three months in which our great ship had undergone repairs and had acquired the more dignified title, "The Sophomore," a boastful crew of Sophomores on another morning in September pushed out on the second lap of the journey. To the well-known Greek word, "sophor," meaning wise, add the word "more" and behold! you have a word of great significance. We had traveled over a rough and perilous sea in the pursuit of knowledge, or at least we thought so, though we learned soon afterwards that there was yet a greater distance to be explored. We decided to assume the responsibilities and dignity usually expected of a sophomore and acted accordingly. With the generous aid of our upper deck-men, we were soon to learn the stupendous folly of our ignorance. Again we attribute the success of our journey to our most faithful and patient captains.

In a much more powerful ocean liner, we launched out on our third lap towards the islands of graduation, fondly anticipating the time when we were to occupy the more stately and dignified ship, "Seniorism." Anxious that we might learn the skill of this famous crew, who unceasingly pointed out our faults and weaknesses instead of encouraging us by discovering our virtues, we kept the speed of our ship almost on equal with the one steered by that all wise hidy. As the result of the brilliant affair in which they were our most gracious guests, we were put on a higher level in the eyes of the high and mighty. But "all is well that ends well," thus we had gained our long sought for and deserved recognition in this momentous event. With the exception of a few storms and some difficult sailing under the clouds of discontent, we finished the last of the lap without any serious losses and arrived in the beautiful port at Campbell College.

The most critical period namely, the last lap of our journey—finds us still radiant with fun and frolic, but calmed to that steadiness which can be so readily relied upon, having at last obtained the most coveted of all degrees, "Dignified Seniors." Many of our crew who were with us at the beginning have dropped from our number of seafarers, having found life on land more pleasant; while others have fallen victims to Cupid's darts. But to those who have remained with us, this will prove a time of progress and achievement in every respect. We shall be glad to look back upon our senior voyage with satisfaction afforded by a task, well done.

To those who have piloted us so successfully through the dangerous and unknown regions of the past four years, we pay our last tribute and respect.

It is with a deep sigh of regret that we approach the end of our voyage and turn our dignified roles to those who follow us.

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,

TOWN OF BUIE'S CREEK.

CAMPBELL COLLEGE.

WE, the High School Seniors of Campbell College, being of reasonably sound mind, in consideration of the sleepless nights we have caused our teachers, as we are about to depart for regions unknown, do hereby make this our "Last Will and Testament" to be read on the sixteenth day of May, 1928:

ARTICLE I.—To our Alma Mater we bequeath our deepest love and admiration for her and hers.

ARTICLE II.—To Dr. Campbell, our beloved President, we do will and bequeath the hope that his life may ever be a constant inspiration to the following Senior Classes, as it has been to us,

ARTICLE 111.—To the faculty as a whole, we will the sweetest memories of our Senior year, and our heartfelt sympathy in their endurance of our dumbness.

1. To Professor Leslie we bequeath an oversize pair of horn-rimmed glasses, in the hope that they may enable him to see things as the boys see them.

- 2. We leave to Professor Marshbanks five Rhode Island Red hens, hoping that they will help him solve the problem of feeding the basketball boys eggs at their yearly banquet.
- To Mrs. Parker we leave a vest pocket dictionary to be used in discriminating between "Miss Allen" and "Mrs. Parker"
- To Miss Powell we bequeath an "evergreen" wreath to be placed on the tomb of her dead language.
 - 5. To Professor Pettigrew, for his never-ending service we will and bequeath:
- (a). Sixty bright red pencils with which to mark errors in future poems, manuscripts, themes, etc.
- (b). A tennis racket five feet in diameter, so that he will stand some chance in his game with Miss Strickland and Miss Parker.
- (c). A tightly-sealed den, five feet by seven feet, in which he can practice on his violin to his heart's content, and at the same time not disturb passers-by.
- 6. To Miss Strickland we will a trip to Paris, hoping that she will win a French nobleman, who will keep her well versed in French slang.
- 7. We will to Professor Edwards Rip Van Winkle's gun with which to kill time until his theories materialize.

 8. To Miss Burt we will a "Clay" mirror with the bone that it will aid her
- 8. To Miss Burt we will a "Clay" mirror with the hope that it will aid her students in their practice of expression.

ARTICLE IV.—To the deserving Junior Class we leave all our invisible privileges, hoping that they will be more successful in finding them than we have been. We also bequeath them the studious habits of the entire Senior Class, with the request that they make a brilliant record next year.

ARTICLE V.—Last, but not in anyway least, we will to all our very fondest farewell.

This document is hereby signed and sealed; and it is declared by the Senior Class of Nineteen Hundred and Twenty-eight, this the sixteenth day of May, in the year of our Lord and Master, Nineteen Hundred and Twnty-eight, as their last will and testament.

(Signed) SENIOR CLASS OF 1928.

CLASS POEM

On first sailing from her cove, the ship
Was but of wooden frame,
From grammar school harbor her tour began,
A sea-port of great repute.
And a right gallant little vessel, the
Freshman was her name.
The crew was gay and jolly; its loyalty
I'll not confute.

Upon this brave little craft the gods Most surely ne'er did frown; For there descended a marvelous gift, Most wonderful it seems.

After each year of honest success, this Ship may change her gown To something nearer the beautiful, Pure white pearl of her dreams.

Beginning the second year of her sailing, She is christened anew. After braving the deep-sea perils And tempests called exams Her outward substance seems to change And becomes a creamier hue. Then her new name of Sophomore Is spread by cablegrams.

Next the third year has gone on past And Junior our bright brig's name, Greater and finer she has grown Sailing down Campbell's river. Flaunting all dangers, her courage high, Bearing her crew on to fame. With sails all set to the world of the future, People of worth she'll deliver.

Though many have left her, still is she sound, And Senior she is this year,
Of beautiful, pure white pearl, and Though buffeted, she has won.
Serene she is, and powerful With not a thing to fear.
Ready to sail undaunted, bravely Through life's great occur.

"MEMORIES"

Back to the sea of yesterday, a tiny ship set sail,
Across the tide of mem'ry on a sea set free from gale,
More precious than gold or diamonds is the cargo it bears,
"Thoughts"—worth many millions—of joy, sorrow and care.

Along the cost of '26 the sails were hanging low; The tide was high; the tempest raged; our barque rather slow. On board the crew was all alarmed; no harbor could be near, They steered their course with heavy hearts in pity, doubt, and fear.

They plundered "Sophomore" harbor there and sailed again to sea, Just sailing on at reckless pace in high delightful glee. They entered "Junior" harbor, disdaining all dignity, Devouring Tennyson's, Idylls, mockingly they sail to sea.

The great white ship is anchored now, it sails the main no more;
The crew in solemn dignity march out from deck to shore.
At "Senior-land" they're stranded; so impatiently they wait—
To meet the king of intellect who passes out their fate.

—Poet.

CLASS POEM

As Sophomores at Campbell
We wear a big, broad grin.
Our aim is "Always do things well,"
For then the "dip," we'll win.

Sure, we are loyal Campbellites, Trying to do our best. We hope to ever do the right And leave alone the rest.

Beyond us lies our shining goal
That we all try to reach.
Striving to us will ne'er grow old
So long as Campbells teach.

We Sophomores have our little troubles
That sometimes brings the little tear;
But they will vanish just like bubbles,
For we'll be Juniors, sure, next year.

Keep struggling on? We will, you bet, And fight our battles through. But no er will we these days forget Tho' to Sophomore days we bid "Adieu."

WE CAME: WE WORKED: WE CONQUERED

During its history the Philologian Literary Society has accomplished many wonderful works. Its beneficiaries, now scattered throughout the world, have done much through the training received in her walls. She seeks the homage of all her noble sons, so that through their submission to her rites, magic eloquence may flourish. Her spirit, like the first rays of the morning sun, soft, gentle and lifegiving, has quickened the souls of many a dormant youth. Blessed is he who has known her ways.

P erhaps, dear friend, you'd like to know II ow we came to be so strong; I will tell you what I know; I title by little we became a throng. O nward, onward we strove and worked, I inked together in brotherhood; O nward we went and never shirked. G iving our time and what we could. In a little while we grew so great— A nd we never stopped to rest— A nd we never stopped to rest— N ow we've advanced to far in state. S omething tells us we're the BEST.

"Study to show thyself approved unto God"

The B. Y. P. U. is one of the most wide-awake, enthusiastic, functioning organizations on the Campbell campus. Just before Commencement of '27 the general officers, who were to serve this year, were elected and at the beginning of the fall semester began work in earnest. They, with many other students, came together and reorganized the B. V. P. U. into five different unions. Since that time our enrollment has increased to such an extent that two new senior unions have had to be organized, all of which are doing splendid work.

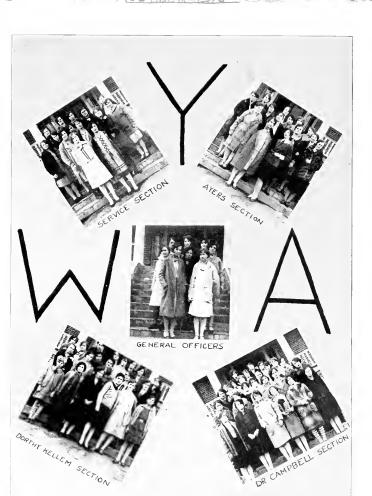

The main purpose of the B. Y. P. U. is to train Christians for active service in the Master's harvest. In order for this to be done effectively, it is necessary to give the students a comprehensive view of Baptist doctrines, and of B. Y. P. U. methods. In the early fall the largest study course ever conducted at Campbell was put on, enrolling three hundred and thirty students besides the members of the faculty and visitors. Seven books were taught by an able group of teachers, including Mrs. A. B. Bonsteel, Mrs. S. E. Ayers, Prof. B. P. Marshbanks, and Prof. J. E. Ayscue of our own faculty; Misses Rickett and Harrison and Mr. Perry Morgan, of Raleigh, N. C. The study courses were enjoyed greatly by both faculty and students.

When the convention was held at Meredith last summer, the Campbell unions were found far behind in extension work. We resolved that this should not recur, and to avoid this unfortunate neglect, an extension committee was appointed having as its chairman G. D. Danner, which committee has aided the several unions in a broad program. In our group are those who teach Sunday School classes, help in the various religious exercises on our campus, and ass'st nearby pastors. It is being demonstrated that a real B. Y. P. U. worker can stand any test put to him.

The socials provided by the B, Y, P, U, have been pleasant. Many delightful memories of them have been left in our minds. The training and the wholesome fun that the B, Y, P, U, offers makes it an ideal organization for young people.

MARTIN, End —"Abb" excelled when it came to receiving passes. He was ever alert, though perhaps he showed his best in the Wingate game. He graduates this year.

STUART, Tackle—Playing his first year at Campbell, he proved to be a hard fighter, especially strong on the defensive. He has another year here. He was, on account of his size and grit, one of the best linemen on the squad and should be a valuable man next year.

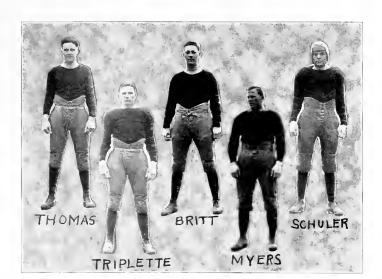

ROYSTER, Center—This tall boy from Leaksville filled the vacancy left by Captain Hawkins in a very commendable way. Bill feared none of 'em, LOWE, Quarterback—A cool headed little general from Charlotte. He played under a handicap of injuries part of the time, and next year should be a regular.

LAMB, Guard—This big boy showed up well in his first year of football. He has the size and ability. With a little experience, he will be superb.

Page one hundred twenty two

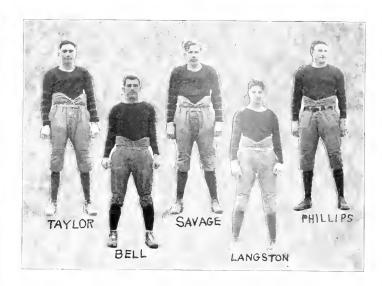

THOMAS, Haljback—In the backfield, Carlos carried on the work which he started when with the State High Champions of Sanford.

TRIPLETTE, Haljback—This was "Tripp's" first year in football. A born athlete he showed ear-marks of a coming ball carrier.

BRITT, Guard—Playing a position that does not often stand out, "I. D." proved an exception. Big in size, he is powerful on defense.

MYERS, Captain, End—"Red" was the most consistent player on the team, starring in practically every game. He was a good leader, running the team from the "huddle," SCHULER, End—Schuler was the hardest tackler on the squad. Getting a late start, he proved himself worthy at every chance.

TAYLOR, Halfback—Not until this year did Herbert really show his merits on the gridiron. He played well in the games which he entered, and we expect him to shine in the future.

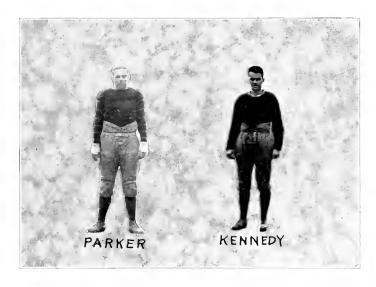

BELL, Fullback—"Spence's" "long suit" is bucking the line; however, he can pass with distance and accuracy. He played in every quarter of every game, in many of which he stood out prominently.

SAVAGE, Tackle—Although not playing in many varsity games, Savage proved valuable in a pinch. He has plenty of determination.

LANGSTON, Quarterback—"Dirty" was not so good this year as last, but he was still the best broken field runner on the team. Langston is young, and has a chance to become great.

PHILLIPS, Tackle—This mountaineer from Ashe was steady and heady. Injuries hurt his playing ability somewhat, but he was a mighty warrior, feared by his opponents.

PARKER, Guard—"Beef" has plenty of size and fearlessness. It was his initial gridiron achievement. He ought to take a regular line position next year.

KENNEDV, Center - "Jimmie" made up for his diminutive size with a superabundance of fighting spirit. He's a good reserve man for backfield or line.

REVIEW OF 1927 FOOTBALL SEASON

The Hole July of

H OPE mingled with much uncertainty describes the opening of our 1927 football season. The coaching task, shared by LeRoy Martin in 1926, this year fell upon the shoulders of Coach Brandon with practically no assistance. In addition to this handicap, only six letter men reported for duty when the call was issued. It soon developed, however, that several promising new men were candidates for the positions left unclaimed, and thus the struggle began.

With some misgivings, therefore, the faculty and students sent the Orange and Black eleven away to meet Atlantic Christian College, champions of the Little Five among the North Carolina Colleges for 1926, for our opening game. The fortunes of war for a time were fickle, slightly favoring our enemy. Near the close of the second half, spurred on by a successful defensive game, our team assumed the offensive, drove across the last marker for a touchdown, and won the game by a 6 to 0 score.

This victory was followed by a thrilling decision over Wingate College on their field by the score of 9 to 7. Only after an appeal from the referee's decision to the National Rules Committee was our victory established.

The team was not able to maintain the record promised in its early attempts. Injuries took out some of the best men on the squad, without sufficient reserve material to fill the gaps. In spite of heroic efforts on the part of Coach Brandon and his men, the morale of the team was shaken by successive defeats at the hands of Wilmington Light Infantry and the Wake Forest Freshmen. Though somewhat steadied by a scoreless tie with the Elon Reserves, the season closed with crushing defeats from Weaver College and Oak Ridge Institute. For lack of opponents, the season closed on November 12th with only six games on the schedule, of which two were won, three lost and one tied.

OUR RECORD

September 15 - Campbell 6 A. C. C. 0.

October 1—Campbell 9—Wingate 7.

October 8-Campbell 0-Wilmington Light Infantry 6.

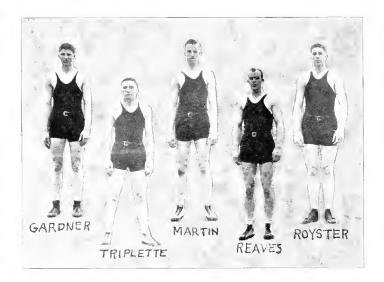

October 15-Campbell 7-Wake Forest Freshmen 54.

October 23—Campbell 0—Elon Reserves 0,

October 29- Campbell 0-Weaver 26.

November 12- - Campbell 0 - Oak Ridge 63.

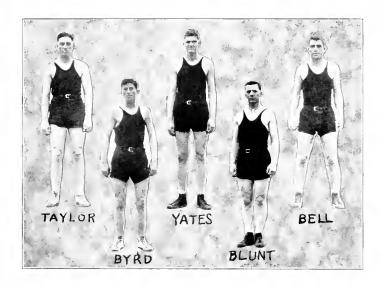

GARDNER, Guard - Howard is a good offensive as well as a fast defensive man. He can hit a long shot when it's needed and scores with exceptional accuracy for a guard.

TRIPLETTE, Forward—"Tripp" was high scorer for the 1928 season. He is quick, pivots easily, and makes a very difficult man to guard. His shots won many games, and he was brilliant in all of them.

MARTIN, Captain, Guard—"Abb" was shifted this year from center to guard, and he proceeded to hold down that position with credit. He was a cool leader, powerful on defense. He wound up his basketball career at Campbell.

REAVES, Forward—Bob was in the game fighting all the time. He was second in points scored, and, besides, played second in many a scoring maneuver.

ROYSTER, Center—Bill was "rangey" man, getting the tip off every opponent. In many games Bill was high scorer, and in all he fought with dogged determination.

TAYLOR, Forward—Herbert is a flashy but rather inconsistent player. He was forced to quit school, and thereby ended his work on the floor.

 $\ensuremath{\mathsf{BYRD}}, \textit{Forward}\xspace\xs$

YATES, Center—Though handicapped at the first of the season by injuries, he was a valuable man both at center and forward.

BLOUNT, Guard—"Red" played a steady game as a guard on the reserve string. He will probably be a regular next year.

BELL, Forward—Spence was a hard fighting substitute. His only trouble is his inability to shoot. He played in most of the games.

BASKET BALL

BASKETBALL this year was a huge success. Coach Hays in his initial appearance at Campbell proved beyond a doubt that the school made no mistake in securing his service. He turned out a winner. Of course, the material which he had at his command was pleasing. Six lettermen were back for the team, and there was almost as much new material as old.

Only three games were lost out of eighteen, to establish a record comparable only with the record made by the team of last year, when seventeen of twenty were won. However, the opponents of this year were of much higher caliber. Victories that were outstanding were: two over Oak Ridge, two over Wingate, one over Carolina Fresh, and an overwhelming defeat of Appalachian State Normal.

The only five men that proved to be our master were Wake Forest Freshmen, with two wins over the Orange and Black.

Four junior college and two prep school games were annexed to our credit. Backed by this record, we claim the Junior College-Prep School championship of the State.

Upon the resignation of Coach LeRoy Martin in the spring of 1927, Mr. Harry Hartsell, for years Director of Athletics at State College, was secured to direct the baseball squad. Without a single letter man to draw upon, Mr. Hartsell set to work with a promising squad of new men and produced a creditable team, winning ten out of fourteen games.

SOMETHING ELECTRICAL FOR EVERY PURPOSE

Holahede Bu RR)

As time has wrought changes in our mode of living and in so many of our customs, so it has brought about decided improvements in Electrical Labor Saving Devices which lengthen the tasks of the housewife of today.

An Electric Refrigerator protects the food and health of the family; a Vacuum Sweeper dustlessly cleans her rugs; an Electric Washer scrubs and wrings her clothes; other appliances, too numerous to mention, are at her command.

It is no longer necessary for the housewife to look upon her housekeeping tasks as burdens when an Electric Appliance will do the job in less time, more efficiently, and preserve her youth and beauty.

THE TRUE ATMOSPHERE OF SCHOOL AND COLLEGE

IS NEVER

E endeavor, in producing school annuals, to render a helpful and constructive service directed toward enabling a student staff to get out a representative, distinctive book within their budget.

In connection with our new and modern printing plant we maintain a large Art and Service Department where page borders, cover designs, division pages, and complete decorative and illustrative motifs are created and worked out.
